Duncan also looks for those abstract images that tell part of the story: flowers, button-holes, the bride's shoes and rings. He uses digital imaging to enhance the impact of those shots so they can be part of your memories of the day.

There are a few reasons to choose Duncan to be entrusted with the photography of your wedding; he only takes one wedding booking per day; he uses digital imaging so that both colour and black and white images are available from the same shot; he is highly qualified and committed to producing high quality images for you; his prices are realistic; and he includes CDROMs of original images in all his packages - not stinging the customers for hundreds of pounds for the licence.

Simply put, wedding photography is a series of portraiture shoots, of different groups, at different locations, over a period of time. In terms of importance it is the recording of one of the most significant 'Rites-of-Passage' we go through in our adult lives.

It has to be right!

The pre-wedding briefing is an essential part of ensuring that the images you want are taken, the tenor of the photography, who it is important you are photographed with, what is important about where you are having the ceremony/service or the reception.

Duncan's Professional Wedding Photography Service ranges from options to suit the smaller budget up to a most comprehensive package that includes photography of the Bride on her 'Trial Day' to ensure that no matter the weather the beauty shots are 'in the can' removing a worry from the actual day. The full package also includes attendance of Duncan's wife who looks after the Bride's needs - Claire carries a sewing kit, anti-fluff brush and also ensures that straps are not seen unless they are in the design of the dress.

Duncan is a patient photographer with his clients, especially the younger people involved in your big day; the Page Boy, Flower Girl or younger Bridemaids. However he also has a very keen eye for those shots that nobody else other than the youngsters could ever hope to create - let alone get away with! Duncan's reportage approach will cover all the best angles and opportunistic shots to ensure the story of your day is told properly.
